CHARACTER OF THE REYC

This section is included as an introduction to the Club and these Rules.

History

The Royal Engineer Boat Club was formed in 1846 at Chatham “to encourage sailing and boating among the officers of the Corps”. It became the Royal Engineer Yacht Club (the Club) in 1864. The Club sponsored and owned both sailing yachts and sculls for racing and recreation. After the Club yacht Fulmar came second in the first Ocean (Fastnet) Race, her crew were founding members of the Royal Ocean Racing Club (RORC), and Ilex won the second Race in 1926. In 1945 the REYC Germany Branch was formed in Stickenhorn harbour, Kiel for Baltic sailing, with the British Kiel Yacht Club, also formed in 1945, relocating there in 1951. The rowers broke away in 1950 and became the Royal Engineer Rowing Club. In 1947 the Army recognised sailing as an official sport and the Army Sailing Association (ASA) was set up to control it. In 1963 the Corps of Royal Engineers (the Corps) and the REYC formed the Royal Engineer Sailing Association (RESA), open to all ranks, with complementary objects and affiliated to the ASA. The RESA became responsible for Corps Sailing as an Army sport in 1980. This arrangement continued until 1992 when the REYC assumed responsibility for all aspects of Corps Sailing, the RESA was disbanded and the REYC was opened to all ranks. The first volume of the Club history was written by Maj Gen Sir Gerald Duke KBE, CB, DSO in 1982.

Ethos

The function of the REYC is to facilitate sailing and seamanship as a means of promoting the efficiency of the armed forces, especially in the Corps of Royal Engineers. The Club does this by providing sailing boats, equipment and facilities, and sponsoring activities, thereby developing Royal Engineer team spirit and esprit de corps for those serving in the Sappers. Members who are retired from active service or are Associate Members support the Club by taking part in its activities as like-minded people who enjoy marine pursuits, contributing knowledge, experience and continuity, and financially. Older Members' organisational and practical skills benefit younger, less experienced members, and those who use the Club's boats and equipment help to maintain the fleet in good condition.

The Club has always been at the fore-front of skills training and has raced enthusiastically, inshore and offshore. It is believed that we are the only club to enter a yacht in every Fastnet Race. Members are helped and encouraged to develop their skills to instructor and examiner level under Royal Yachting Association (RYA), ASA and British Kite Sports Association (BKSA) schemes. Corps yacht, dinghy and board sailors have a fine record competing in Service regattas, as well as civilian events. The Club organises its own Adventurous Training, and strongly supports blue water Service sailing expeditions. In addition, a quarter of our members own yachts which race and cruise extensively round the UK, Europe and even around the world.

Traditions

Our Patron since 1952 is HRH The Prince Philip, The Duke of Edinburgh, KG, KT, OM, GBE, ONZ, QSO, AC, GCL, CC, CMM, PC. The Club sends loyal greetings at the time of the Annual Dinner.

We are one of few yacht clubs privileged to wear an undefaced Blue Ensign by permission of a Warrant first received in 1872, and the only Army and first Service yacht club to do so; a transcript is in Annex B.

The Club holds an Annual General Meeting and a formal Dinner which has normally been held in the Royal Engineer Headquarter Mess, open to all members and their guests with official guests from other clubs and organisations. The Club Grace, and the Club annual prizes and awards, are recorded in the Annexes. Other less formal events are the Lymington Meet in the Solent and the Mary Cup on the River Medway. A long-standing fixture is the Ilex Trophy match against the Royal Navy, racing yachts, dinghies and boards for a silver model of the original Ilex. There are arrangements with other Associations and Clubs, including affiliation and honorary membership. The Year Book is sent to all Members and, with the Website, keeps them in touch with activities.

Service Sailing Organisations

The REYC as an ASA affiliated Club is represented on its Council by the Commodore who provides an annual report on Club activity. The ASA is appointed by the Army Board through the Army Sport Control Board (ASCB) as the authority, advisor and coordinator for all sailing matters. The Club thus receives advice, guidance and support from the ASA including access to grants and sponsorship, use of its training facilities and the award of formal qualifications, participation in Army sailing events, and Club membership of the RYA (the national sailing authority) with associated benefits. The ASA also acts as the voice of Army sailing with the other Services, the Ministry of Defence and civilian sailing bodies; eg RYA and RORC.

The Association of Service Yacht Clubs (ASYC) acts in a similar manner to the ASA at the Services level, reporting to the UK Armed Forces Sports Board (AFSB). The AFSB reviews at regular intervals the status of sports in the Armed Forces, the duty status of personnel participating and the eligibility for public funding of individual sports within the Services. ASA affiliated clubs are represented on the ASYC Council by the ASA Flag Officers.

The REYC is a Corps Sports Committee responsible for inshore and offshore sailing in accordance with Corps Sports Policy. Annual reports are required by the designated Corps Board from which grants and other support may be obtained.

REYC boats are also available for charter through reciprocal arrangements to Royal Naval Sailing Association (RNSA), ASA and Royal Air Force Sailing Association (RAFSA) club members.

As well as the Emergency Services these authorities may include the MCA, the Marine Accident Investigation Branch (MAIB), the RYA and the BKSA.
 - c. If a Club boat or other equipment is found to have been damaged as a result of negligence or carelessness, after suitable investigation by the Commodore, the Skipper, Charterer or User will normally be asked to contribute to its inspection and repair. 59. Any matter reported to a Flag Officer which might have brought or might bring the Club into disrepute, or incur significant expenditure of Club resources, is to be reported to the Commodore and, if necessary, to the Board of Trustees. The Commodore should decide how the matter should be investigated. A non-involved flag officer (including an Honorary Rear Commodore) may be asked to look into the matter and report to the Commodore recommending appropriate action. Sanctions may include restriction of Club privileges or requiring a member to resign from the Club.

ANNEX A

FLAGS AND FLAG ETIQUETTE

1. The flying of flags on boats is governed by longstanding custom and tradition, and by Ministry of Defence and International Regulations. Flying flags incorrectly can upset the traditionally minded and, in theory, constitutes an offence under the Merchant Shipping Act. In foreign countries it can not only cause offence but also lead to difficulties with maritime officials.

The Ensign

2. The Secretary of State for Defence is authorised under the provisions of Section 2 of the Merchant Shipping Act 1995 to authorise the wearing of Blue Ensigns. Administration of the associated Permits was delegated to the RYA from 1 April 1985, from whom the Honorary Secretary receives Permits and their validation. The conditions are printed on the Permit. Any Member eligible by Club Rules and who meets these conditions may apply for a Permit for their boat; the fee and period will be agreed at a General Meeting of the Club. The Permit ceases to be valid when either the Permit or the boat registration certificate becomes out of date. Club owned yachts have appropriate Permits aboard authorising the wearing of a Blue Ensign by eligible Members; when the person in charge is not eligible a Red Ensign shall be worn, as expected of any British boat.
3. There are many accepted procedures associated with wearing Ensigns, and Members are expected to comply:
 - a. They should be prominently displayed, normally from a staff at the stern, by day and night, unless participating in a recognised race (lowered and a Class Flag flown from the 5 minute gun); observance may be relaxed outside pilotage waters.
 - b. When in harbour or an anchorage they should be hoisted and lowered at morning and evening colours: hoisted at 0800 local time from 15 February to 31, or 0900 local time from 1 November to 14 February; lowered at sunset, at 2100 local time or when the Permit holder goes ashore, whichever is the earliest.

- c. They may be dipped to half-mast when passing British and foreign warships. The other vessel acknowledges by dipping and re-hoisting her Ensign, upon which the saluting boat re-hoists hers.
 - d. Others include national or private mourning and conforming to local conditions.
4. Courtesy Ensign. The Ensign of a country being visited should be worn in a position which is inferior only to the yacht's own national Ensign. In single-masted yachts this is at the starboard lower cross-tree on the main mast. It is normally flown at all times when within the territorial waters of a foreign country.

The Burgee

5. The REYC Club Burgee may be flown when an entitled Member is aboard any boat and is encouraged when they are in effective control, and must be flown when the Blue Ensign is worn by an entitled Member aboard their personal or a Club owned yacht. The Burgee shall be worn at any place on the main mast, preferably at the truck or from the lower starboard spreader. If a country Courtesy Ensign or other international flag is worn, these shall take precedence, with the Club Burgee preferably worn on the lower port spreader. Flag Officers and holders of the Special Flag may substitute their Burgee or Flag for the Club Burgee.
6. Flag Officers are entitled to fly the following distinguishing Burgees: Commodore, a swallow-tailed flag displaying the same devices as the Burgee; Vice-Commodore, a flag similar to that of the Commodore with one white ball in the first quarter; Rear Commodores, Additional and Honorary Rear Commodores, a flag similar to that of the Commodore with two white balls horizontally alongside each another in the first quarter. On retirement, they are entitled to fly the appropriate Burgee with the swallow-tails removed; ie rectangular in shape.
7. When the Special Flag is held, it shall be flown in a similar manner to the Club Burgee. It is rectangular, quarterly azure and argent in the first quarter 3 guns in pale and in the fourth quarter a lion passant gardant over all in fesse point a grenade all or.

Dressing Overall

8. An owner or skipper may dress their yacht overall when at anchor or on moorings for any good reason, and to conform with national occasions and local custom. They should be dressed and undressed at morning and evening colours respectively. There is a normal order for stringing the International Code Flags (equally spaced from stem head/pulpit to top of mast to stern/pushpit). REYC boats are particularly encouraged to dress overall if they are in commission on the Monarch's Official Birthday and the Club Patron's Birthday.

ANNEX C

PRIZES AND TROPHIES

1. The Anderson Trophy (1959) The cup was presented to the REYC in memory of Lt Col E P Anderson DSO in 1959. It is awarded annually to a Club member, selected by the Main Committee, for outstanding results or services to the club.
2. The REYC Seamanship Trophy (1969) The trophy was established in 1969 by the Royal Engineer Sailing Association Main Committee. It is awarded annually to a serving soldier of the REYC, sailing in a Club boat or any other boat, who in the opinion of a Select Committee, put up the all-round best performance during the season in respect of racing or cruising, or care of boats.
3. The Brewer Trophy (1986) The trophy was presented by Maj W Brewer in January 1986. It is to be awarded annually to the REYC Member who, in the opinion of the Rear Commodore (Inshore), has produced the most consistent results throughout the year in dinghy or sail board racing.
4. The Blagden Trophy (1986) The trophy was presented in July 1986 by Brig P M Blagden CBE. It is to be awarded annually to a young officer (below the rank of Capt) who, in the view of a Select Committee, has been the most enthusiastic sailor of that year.
5. The Jardine Trophy (1990) The trophy was presented by Lt Col S Jardine OBE in January 1990. It is to be awarded annually to a junior soldier (Cpl or below) who, in the opinion of the Rear Commodore (Inshore), has contributed most in either results or general participation in dinghy sailing.
6. The Carlier Trophy (2009) The trophy was presented by Maj Gen A N Carlier CB OBE in July 2009. It is to be awarded to the skipper of the best-placed REYC yacht entered in the Fastnet Race.
7. The Torch Trophy (2012) The trophy was proposed by the Rear Commodore (Regions) and approved at the REYC Annual General Meeting in 2012. It is to be awarded for the best log, in the opinion of a

Select Committee, for a cruise in mainly coastal (or inland) waters, with a duration of 7 days or more.

8. The Avalanche Trophy (2012) The trophy was proposed by the Rear Commodore (Regions) and approved at the REYC Annual General Meeting in 2012. It is to be awarded for the best log, in the opinion of a Select Committee, for a cruise containing a passage longer than 1,000 nautical miles.

9. The Mary Cup (1864/1965), The Sheerness Regatta Tankard (1864)
The Cutter Mary, skippered by Lt Frere, won the REYC regatta in May 1864, and the four members of the crew each received a finely engraved pewter tankard. In 1964, one of these was found in private ownership at East Malling and presented to the REYC. Accordingly, the first race for the Mary Cup was raced on the Medway following a course similar to the original race in September 1965. A matching tankard in disrepair was found that year in Wyke Regis, was repaired by the Pewterers' Guild and also presented to the REYC to be competed for in the same race. In 2015, the 50th anniversary of the Mary Cup race was celebrated with the presentation of the Sheerness Regatta 1864 Tankard originally owned by Col Jack Bucknill, first Honorary Rear Commodore of the REYC. This has been added to the trophies presented at this event.

10. The Ithnan Cup (1949) Awarded to the winning REYC skipper at the annual REYC Lymington Meet, this trophy is the bequest of Col J T Bucknill and named after the yacht Ithnan, which he owned. It has been competed for since the inception of the REYC Solent Meet in about 1949. Prior to the Meet settling on its present venue, it was held at Yarmouth and was at the time known as the REYC Yarmouth Meet.

11. The Ilex Trophy (1950) The Club, with the approval of the Corps Committee, commissioned a silver model of the Club's yacht Ilex which, together with a ship's bell, was presented to HMS Ilex at a ceremony in Portsmouth Harbour in 1937. When she was paid off at the end of the war, the model and bell went to HMS Pembroke, then the shore barracks at Chatham, for safe custody. In 1950, at the suggestion of the local RN Commander in Chief, it was agreed that the model would be put up as a challenge trophy for which the REYC and RNSA Chatham would compete each year on the River Medway, the types of boats to be used and other details to be decided by mutual agreement. When the RN presence at Chatham ended in 1983, the regatta moved to Portsmouth Harbour and the Solent. In the early days the competition was sailed in dinghies, changing in 1961 onwards to include yachts and in 2003 wind surfing was added. With RNSA agreement, the model is in the custody of the RE HQ Mess at Chatham, and can be seen by a generation of REYC members to whom this great yacht would otherwise be merely a name. Also in the Mess is the picture of Ilex rounding the Fastnet Rock in 1926, coming first in the race and winning the Fastnet Bowl.

12. The Fryer Cup (1952) In 1952, the trophy presented by Maj Gen W G Fryer, was awarded to the winner of the REYC Keelboat Regatta sailed at the Seaview YC in the Mermaid Class. Past winners have included medal-winning and aspirant Olympic sailors of the REYC. Bill Fryer won the trophy himself, and it is worth noting that he was Mate of the crew of Ilex in 1931, when she competed in the first Transatlantic Ocean Race. The Fryer Cup race is no longer staged as an REYC event and the trophy is in storage in the RE HQ Mess.
13. The Carlier Plate (1997) The Plate was presented by Maj Gen A N Carlier CB OBE in 1997 to recognise the connection between the REYC and the Royal Lymington Yacht Club, and thereby encourage participation both afloat and ashore at the annual REYC Solent Meet. To be awarded to the winning Club in a match between the Clubs sailed during the Lymington Meet, the arrangements to be decided by mutual agreement, eg three yachts with similar racing handicaps from each Club.
14. The Peter Clarke Memorial Trophy, a Corps of Royal Engineers Trophy (1991) The award of the Peter Clarke Memorial Trophy is to recognise endeavour in relation to one of the sports with which the late Maj Peter Clarke was particularly associated, namely gliding, private flying, sailing, skiing and sub-aqua. One award may be made annually in each of the sports and the names recorded in the memorial book. Anyone who has shown dedication in perfecting their own skills in the sport and assisting others to benefit as well, is eligible. Those selected may not have performed outstandingly well at the sport themselves, but will have made a contribution of an outstanding nature. To be awarded annually to a Club Member selected by the Main Committee.

ANNEX E

REYC CIO GOVERNANCE STRUCTURE (Association Model)

REYC Sub-Committees support and report to RCdres Offshore, Inshore and Regions with Branch Captains reporting to RCdre Regions.

ORGANISATION PRINCIPLES

1. Role of the Board of Trustees:
 - a. Oversight of the REYC as a Charitable Incorporated Organisation.
 - b. Strategic planning.
 - c. Direction to Main Committee.
 - d. To be answerable to Members.

2. Role of the Main Committee:
 - a. Development of strategic options for consideration by the Board of Trustees.
 - b. Operational Management of REYC (including alignment with Corps Sports Policy).
 - c. Oversight of routine Club activities managed by Vice Commodore, Rear Commodores and their sub-committees.
 - d. Reporting to Board of Trustees.

3. The Main Committee chaired by the Commodore is the Club's principal management body. However, Members should understand the charitable nature of the Club and the role of the Board of Trustees. External relations (eg with Army Sailing Association, and other Clubs and organisations) should be conducted predominantly by the Main Committee. All relationships with the Charity Commission must be conducted through the Board of Trustees and the Board will run Annual General Meetings in order to meet Charity Commission requirements. That will not preclude reports being presented by Main Committee members.

4. The relationship between the Board of Trustees and the Main Committee could be considered analogous to the business relationship between a Board of Directors (led by Chairman) and the Executive Committee (led by Chief Executive Officer).

5. The role of Managing Agent for Club-owned yachts rests formally with Rear Commodore (Offshore). He/She is answerable directly to the Board of Trustees as the corporate owners; however, he/she will work to the Commodore for other management issues. Rear Commodore (Inshore) has similar responsibilities for Club-owned assets operated and maintained for the Club's inshore activities.
